Mobile App Development Project

Phase I: Requirements Gathering

This phase involves detailed discussions with stakeholders/client to define the mobile app's purpose, target audience, and key features. By the end of this phase, a comprehensive requirements document outlining the app's specifications will be prepared and approved by all relevant parties.

Phase II: Prototype Delivery

Based on the approved requirements, the Client will receive a functional prototype of the mobile app. Stakeholders will have the opportunity to interact with the prototype, providing feedback on user interface, user experience, and overall usability. Multiple iterations will be conducted until the prototype aligns with the project goals and user expectations.

Phase III: Final Product Delivery

Following the approval of the prototype, a full-scale implementation of the mobile app will be created. This includes front-end and back-end development, integration of third-party services (if applicable), rigorous testing for functionality and performance, and final user acceptance testing. The app will be optimized for various devices and operating systems to ensure a seamless experience for all users.

Payment Terms:

The Client agrees to pay the Developer according to one of the following payment structures:

☐ Option A:

Once off payment upon commencement of the project.

☐ Option B:

40% of the Total Chargeable Amount upon commencement of the project.

30% of the Total Chargeable Amount upon Prototype Delivery.

30% of the Total Chargeable Amount upon Final Product Delivery.

Terms and Conditions:

- The Client understands and agrees that all payments made to the Developer are non-refundable once the project commences. In the event of project termination or cancellation by the Client after the commencement of the project, the Client forfeits all payments made to the Developer up to that point.
- The Client understands that the agreed-upon payment structure is binding and commits to making the payments as per the conditions of the selected method. Failure to adhere to the payment schedule may result in project delays or other actions as deemed appropriate by the Developer."
- Late payments may be subject to interest at a rate of 5% per week.
- The project timeline is estimated based on cooperation and timely feedback from the Client.
